

Hazardous Substances Consultant

- diverse work environments
- close team with job autonomy
- dynamic, fun and challenging

QEC is a multi service consulting company with an extensive client base. We seek a person with demonstrated experience in management of hazardous substances, specifically HSNO legislation. Industrial knowledge and experience would be an advantage. Your role will involve compliance assessments, provision of regulatory and best practice advice and report writing.

This role would suit a person who:

- Has an outgoing personality with effective communication skills,
- Is self organised, and can work to project deadlines,
- Is effective in data capture and assessment of compliance, and
- Compiles concise reports to a high standard.

You must be able to learn quickly and enjoy a challenging and varied work environment, and be available to travel regularly.

Our office is located in Cambridge and you will deliver consultancy and assessment throughout New Zealand. Specific training will be provided.
